

Memorandum D14-1-9

Ottawa, July 17, 2017

Information Pertaining to the Acceptance, Enforcement and Renewal of Undertakings in Dumping and Subsidy Investigations

In Brief

1. This memorandum is revised to reflect the amendments to the Special Import Measures Act that came into effect on June 22, 2017.
2. These amendments provide that an undertaking may now be accepted where the President of the Canada Border Services Agency has found an insignificant margin of dumping or an insignificant amount of subsidy for the preliminary determination.

This memorandum explains the administration and enforcement procedures in relation to undertakings under the Special Import Measures Act (SIMA).

Guidelines and General Information

Definition of an Undertaking in a Dumping Investigation

1. An undertaking is an offer made voluntarily by an exporter to the President of the Canada Border Services Agency (President) to increase the selling price of goods so that the margin of dumping or the injury to Canadian industry is eliminated. An undertaking takes the form of a written commitment to adhere to specific conditions in exporting goods subject to an investigation. Attached to this memorandum is an example of the information included in an undertaking in a dumping investigation. Although undertakings are tailored to the specific circumstances of each investigation, this example covers the essential features that must be addressed.

Definition of an Undertaking in a Subsidy Investigation

2. In a subsidy investigation, an undertaking is a voluntary offer by a foreign government to:
 - (a) eliminate the subsidy;
 - (b) limit the amount of subsidy on the goods exported;
 - (c) limit the quantity of goods shipped to Canada that are subsidized; or
 - (d) otherwise eliminate the injurious effects of the subsidizing.
3. In a subsidy investigation, an undertaking can also be an offer made voluntarily by an exporter, with the written consent of the government of the country of export, to increase the selling price of the goods to the importer so that the injurious effect of the subsidy is eliminated.

Effect of the Acceptance of an Undertaking

4. The collection of provisional duty, anti-dumping duty or countervailing duty is suspended and, except for the situation described in paragraph 17, the dumping or subsidy investigation is suspended.

Consultations and Time Limit for Offering an Undertaking

5. Before accepting an undertaking aimed at the elimination of injury, the Canada Border Services Agency (CBSA) normally consults with complainants to seek their views on the levels of pricing necessary to eliminate the injury caused by the dumping or subsidizing. These consultations are general in nature because of the need to protect confidential information submitted by the exporter or foreign government. Such discussions may not be needed before accepting an undertaking that proposes to eliminate the estimated margin of dumping or the amount of subsidy.
6. An undertaking can only be accepted by the President after a preliminary determination of dumping or subsidizing. The President will not accept an undertaking after the issuance of a final determination of dumping or subsidizing.
7. Undertakings should be offered as early in the process as possible, and no later than 60 days after the preliminary determination of dumping or subsidizing, to allow sufficient time for a complete analysis. The exporter or the foreign government may revise undertaking offers after consultations with the CBSA.
8. Any party who wishes to be notified when the CBSA receives an undertaking offer must inform the CBSA that he/she wishes to be notified. The CBSA will notify those parties and post notice on the CBSA website that an undertaking offer has been received. Interested parties have nine days from the day the CBSA receives the undertaking offer to provide comments on its acceptability. The President is required to consider these representations before deciding whether to accept the undertaking.

Requirements

9. Section 49 of SIMA contains the requirements for the acceptance of undertakings by the President.
10. In a dumping investigation, written undertaking offers must be made individually by exporters involved in the investigation. The undertaking option may, however, be discussed with a representative from an association or a group of exporters. In a subsidy investigation, written undertaking offers must be made by the government of the country of export or by the individual exporters with the consent of the government of the country of export.
11. Undertaking offers by exporters in a dumping investigation, or by governments or exporters in a subsidy investigation, must account for "all or substantially all" of the dumped or subsidized imports under investigation. The term "all or substantially all" is normally interpreted to mean 85 percent or more of the volume of dumped or subsidized imports under investigation. However, representation of 85 percent of the volume of dumped or subsidized goods does not necessarily mean that the undertaking will be accepted. For example, if an exporter not included in the 85 percent has the potential to ship large quantities of dumped goods to Canada, it may be concluded that the undertaking does not cover a sufficient percentage of the trade.

12. In cases involving exports from more than one country, undertakings can be accepted from exporters in a dumping investigation, or governments or exporters in a subsidy investigation, representing "all or substantially all" of the imports from these countries collectively. Therefore, it is not always necessary to obtain undertakings from exporters or governments in each country covered by the investigation. However, undertakings cannot be accepted and the investigation suspended for some exporters or some countries while the investigation continues for others. When the criteria to accept undertakings have been met, the investigation is suspended for all exporters and countries.
13. Price increases proposed in an undertaking must not be higher than necessary to eliminate the estimated margin of dumping in a dumping investigation or the estimated amount of subsidy in a subsidy investigation.
14. Undertakings must be practicable to administer. To facilitate the administration of an undertaking, exporters in a dumping investigation, and foreign governments or exporters in a subsidy investigation, are required to provide information on their domestic markets and export sales to Canada and allow for verification of that information on a regular basis.

Amendments of an Undertaking

15. Once an undertaking is accepted, it can be amended at any time in accordance with its terms. Amendments are usually made to update the selling prices in the undertaking to reflect changes in market conditions. An undertaking can also be amended to cover exports of products included in the product definition of the goods under investigation but not already specified in the undertaking.

Confidentiality of an Undertaking

16. SIMA contains provisions for the treatment and disclosure of confidential information and non-confidential information. An undertaking offer submitted to the CBSA for purposes of a proceeding under SIMA is subject to the confidentiality provisions of the Act and, therefore, must be accompanied by a non-confidential edited version or a non-confidential summary of the offer.

Request to Complete the Investigation and the Inquiry

17. When presenting an undertaking offer, an exporter in a dumping investigation, or a foreign government in a subsidy investigation, can request that the investigation by the CBSA and the inquiry by the Canadian International Trade Tribunal (Tribunal) be completed to make a final determination about whether there is dumping or subsidizing and consequent injury.
18. The request to complete the investigation must be presented to the CBSA simultaneously with the undertaking offer. At the same time, a request to complete the injury inquiry must also be made to the Tribunal.
19. If the Tribunal issues an injury finding, the undertaking remains in effect and, as long as the undertaking is complied with, no anti-dumping or countervailing duties are collected. As mentioned in paragraph 23, a finding of no injury by the Tribunal terminates the undertaking as well as the investigation.

Termination of an Undertaking

20. The President must terminate an undertaking if, within 30 days of the date of the notice of acceptance of the undertaking, but before a finding by the Tribunal, the President receives a written request to terminate the undertaking from:
- (a) an importer or an exporter of the goods or a complainant in a dumping investigation; or
 - (b) an importer or an exporter of the goods or a government of the country of export or a complainant in a subsidy investigation.
21. The President can also terminate an undertaking because the terms of the undertaking have been violated or because of new information or changed circumstances.
22. If the investigation continues while an undertaking is in place, as explained in paragraph 17, the undertaking would be terminated if the President ends the investigation in the following situations:
- In a dumping investigation, for situations where the investigation terminates against an exporter that has an insignificant margin of dumping, the President will terminate the undertaking made by that exporter. The President will then decide whether any remaining undertakings are still reasonable and can continue for the remaining exporters.
 - In a subsidy investigation, for situations where the investigation terminates against an exporter that has an insignificant amount of subsidy, the President will terminate the undertaking made by that exporter, if applicable. The President will then decide whether the undertaking provided by the government of the country of export or for the remaining exporter(s) who entered into an undertaking with consent of the government of the country of export is still reasonable and can continue.
23. If the investigation continues while an undertaking is in place and the Tribunal subsequently issues a finding of no injury, the President will terminate the undertaking.
24. Except where there is an injury finding in effect, an undertaking can be terminated at any time, if the President is satisfied that the dumping, subsidizing or injury would no longer exist if the undertaking were terminated.

Resumption of the Investigation

25. If an undertaking is terminated for reasons mentioned in paragraphs 20 and 21, the President will resume the investigation from the point of suspension.

Additional Undertakings

26. Except where there is an injury finding in effect, the President can accept an undertaking from an exporter or a government in a subsidy case, which has not previously offered an undertaking, provided that the conditions for acceptance of an undertaking have been satisfied. These conditions are specified in paragraphs 9 to 14.

Review and Renewal of an Undertaking

27. Except where the Tribunal has made an injury finding, SIMA requires an undertaking to be reviewed by the President at least every five years to determine if it still serves the purpose for which it was intended. If so, it is renewed and the investigation continues to be suspended. If, on the other hand, the President determines that the undertaking is no longer required, it expires immediately. However, if the Tribunal has issued an injury finding, the President cannot review the need for continuing the undertaking or allow it to expire. In this situation, the undertaking remains in place until the Tribunal rescinds its injury finding. If the Tribunal does not review its finding within five years, the finding automatically expires and all proceedings with respect to the investigation, including undertakings, are terminated. The President may, if necessary, terminate the undertaking at any time for the reasons contained in paragraph 21. In such a situation, anti-dumping or countervailing duties are levied on all dumped or subsidized imports. See paragraphs 32 and 33 for details about liability for the payment of such duty.
28. An application for a review by the Federal Court of Appeal or a review by a panel under the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) of a decision by the President to renew or not to renew an undertaking may be made under SIMA.

Suspension of Collection of Provisional, Anti-dumping and Countervailing Duties

29. Section 50 of SIMA states that once an undertaking is accepted, the investigation is suspended unless a request to complete the investigation is received, as explained in paragraph 17. Whether or not a request to continue the investigation is received, no provisional duty, anti-dumping duty or countervailing duty is collected as long as the undertaking is in force and is complied with. This situation continues unless the undertaking is terminated because of a violation, new information, changed circumstances or because a request to terminate has been received by a designated party, as described in paragraph 20.

Posting of Bonds Before the Undertaking

30. A bond received at the regional CBSA office after the preliminary determination, but before the acceptance of an undertaking, may be retained indefinitely, in cases where the investigation is suspended following the acceptance of an undertaking. Indeed, when no request to complete the investigation is subsequently received, the bond covering the goods imported from the date of the preliminary determination to the date of acceptance of the undertaking may be held until all proceedings in the investigation are terminated. To avoid paying fees to maintain the bond, however, importers can make a cash payment to the regional CBSA office for the provisional duty and have the bond returned.
31. Further information with respect to refunds of provisional duty and bonds may be found in Memorandum D14-1-7, Assessment and Payment of Duties Under the Special Import Measures Act.

Liability for Payment of Anti-dumping and Countervailing Duty for Goods Released Before an Injury Finding by the Canadian International Trade Tribunal

32. In accordance with section 4 of SIMA, liability for the payment of anti-dumping or countervailing duty, with respect to any goods that are subject to an undertaking that has been terminated for a reason other than a violation, and released before the finding by the Tribunal, begins on the day on which the preliminary determination was made and ends on the day that the undertaking was accepted. The liability also re-starts on the day on which the notice of termination of the undertaking was given and ends on the day of the finding by the Tribunal.

33. In accordance with section 4 of SIMA, liability for the payment of anti-dumping or countervailing duty, with respect to any goods that are subject to an undertaking that has been terminated because of a violation and released before the finding by the Tribunal, begins on the day on which the preliminary determination was made and ends on the day that the undertaking was accepted. The liability for payment also re-starts on the day on which the undertaking was violated or the 90th day before the day on which notice of the termination of the undertaking was given, whichever date is later, and ends on the day of the finding by the Tribunal.

Liability for Payment of Anti-dumping and Countervailing Duty for Goods Released After an Injury Finding by the Canadian International Trade Tribunal

34. In accordance with sections 3 and 4 of SIMA, when goods are subject to both an undertaking and a finding of injury by the Tribunal and are released after that finding, liability for the payment of anti-dumping or countervailing duty with respect to the subject goods begins when the undertaking is violated or when the President terminates the undertaking because of new information or new circumstances.
